Word of the Day – Meticulous

Transcript

The word of the day today is meticulous. Meticulous is an adjective. This word describes someone who is extremely detailed and careful.

For instance, let's say you have a very important presentation in a few weeks and you are notorious for typos and grammatical errors within your PowerPoint slides. No matter how often you go over your slides, invariably, you miss something. Luckily you have a colleague that is also notorious, but contrary to you, he is known to catch every minute detail. Everyone may describe him as a meticulous editor. In fear you may have unknowingly missed some corrections, you approach your meticulous colleague to look over your slides.

In another example, let's say you have just moved into a dorm. You have to share your room with another student, and thankfully you get along quite well. However, your definition of cleanliness seems to vary from her definition. While you may believe you have been meticulous in keeping the room clean, she may feel otherwise. You generally straighten up on the weekends, but she cleans on a daily basis. During midterms, this becomes an issue and your relationship becomes strained. You may then put in a request for a room change, specifically for a roommate who is less meticulous.

I hope you find this word useful in expressing your thoughts more clearly. For more information you can find the script at Practicus.co.kr.
