

Word of the Day - Exasperate

Transcript

Hi, the word of the day today is exasperate. Exasperate is most commonly used as a verb. This word can be used to describe relations between both family and work. A person or event that incites excessive aggravation or anger, something quite negative is usually described as someone that can exasperate you. For instance, if you were to use this in your day to day, if you have a sister that is always late, perpetually late; you could use it in a dialogue. For instance,

"My sister is always late but she had promised me that she would be on time. Can you imagine how exasperated I was when she was late again?"

Another example might be, if you're a student regarding a math problem. If you're having difficulties redoing the math problem and you've been trying to solve it multiple times and you're still finding it difficult, you might be exasperated. So again, for instance you could say,

"I can never figure out that math problem, no matter how many times I try. It's so exasperating."

You can find the script at www.practicus.co.kr. Thank you.