일단 좋은 대학을 가고 볼 일이다. 자식이 좋은 대학에 갈 수 있도록 부모가 어려서부터 적극적으로 관여해야 한다. 공부하기 힘들어도 시간이 지나면 부모님께 감사하게 될 것이다.

- When it comes to university education, it's better to have a diploma from a better university that has a higher ranking. To achieve that goal, parents should do their part. Studying hard in one's teens is difficult, but the children will be thankful to their parents later in their life.
- Parents need to be involved in a child's education if they want their child to get into a top-ranked school. It will be hard for the child but when they grow up, they will thank their parents for pushing them.
- Parents need to be helicopter parents in their child's education if they want them to go to the best schools. It will not be easy for the child, but it will pay off in the end and they will be thankful for attention they received.

자식은 삶은 자식의 삶이다. 부모가 많이 관여한다고 좋은 대학을 간다는 보장도 없다. 요즘은 대학과 무관하게 성공하고 행복한 삶을 사는 사람들도 많다.

- Let their children live their own life. It's not the parents' life. More involvement of parents doesn't guarantee a better university. Also, we see more cases of people living a successful and happy life regardless of a college diploma.
- Parents need to leave their children alone when it comes to education. Micromanaging a child's education does not guarantee success. In the modern era, we see more and more people becoming successful without a university degree.
- Going to college is becoming antiquated. No longer does a degree equal a good career. Parents need to be more hands off and let their children learn on their own.

대학 시험은 완벽하지 않다. 지적 능력의 일부를 측정하는 통과 의례 같은 것이지, 어떤 사람의 능력 전체를 측정하지는 못 한다. 부모는 멀리 보아야 하며 단기간의 성과에 너무 집착해서는 안 된다.

- SAT or college entrance exams are not perfect measurements. It simply evaluates a certain aspect of a person's intellect. It's just a rite of passage. A person's total capabilities are not measured by the SAT score alone. Parents need to look further and should not be too focused on short-term result or high test scores.
- Standardized tests are a limited indicator of intelligence. It is a process everyone needs go through, but it does not reflect whether the student is well-rounded. Parents need to focus on other aspects of the child's development.

- Parents have tunnel vision when it comes to college entrance exams. All they care about is the final score and little else. Parent should raise their children to be intellectually and emotionally prepared to be adults.
