기술 발달 덕에 기계가 통역을 대신해 줄 날이 멀지 않아 보인다. 외국어 공부에 너무 많은 시간을 들이지 말고, 창의성을 개발하거나 과학기술에 관심을 갖는 것이 더 좋다.

- Thanks to technological advancements, especially artificial intelligence, the time soon will come when people don't have to study a foreign language anymore. Computers will accurately translate for us. It would be better to work hard to improve your other skills and study science or technology than spend a lot of time and energy on studying foreign languages.
- With the evolution of translation technology, soon people will not need to learn a foreign language. You should focus your efforts on hard sciences and areas of study that can make you more attractive in the job market.
- It is a waste of time to study a foreign language. In the future, we will be able to use technology to instantly translate what we want to say in any language. People need to put more of an emphasis on studying engineering and technology, so they can maximize their potential when they are looking for work.

기술이 아무리 발전해도 기계가 통역을 100% 대신하는 일은 있을 수 없다. 오히려 국경의 낮아지면서 누구나 외국어를 구사할 줄 알아야 하는 시대가 되고 있다. 기계에 의존해 의사소통하는 사람과 직접 외국어를 구사하는 사람 사이에는 큰 차이가 생길 것이다.

- Even with technological advancements, machines cannot replace human translation 100%. On the contrary, as the world becomes more globalized, the importance of foreign language skills will become much greater. There will be a widening gap between those who depend on technology for translation and those who can communicate directly in a foreign language.
- As we are becoming a global society, language is more important than ever. You should not rely on technology if you plan on communicating with people from other countries. Small details and cultural aspects of language cannot be programmed. Those who learn to speak a language will have far better chances in the job market than those who choose not to study.
- The nuances of language cannot be fully expressed even with sophisticated technology. As the world becomes interconnected through technology, travel, and business, foreign language is vital for those who want to excel. Translation technology can only get you so far. There will always be more opportunities for those who can speak another language.
